
EFCEM Update, July 2023

Welcome to the July's edition of the EFCEM Update. This edition contains a snapshot of the recent EFCEM General Assembly in Paris, EFCEM member news, and news of EFCEM's strategic positioning.

A note from exiting EFCEM President, Mr. Phil Williams.

Once again, this year as with previous years, I think it is important to recognise and thank the individual Working Group Convenors for the commitment and efforts and their many communications over the last twelve months and in keeping all working group members fully engaged and thank you to all the national association for the members and individuals' inputs over the last year, Thank You!

We now enter a new chapter for EFCEM, I look forward to the future of EFCEM, under the guidance over the next twelve months of a New President Martin Uber and the EFCEM Board and with the support of Iain Munro as Secretary General.

It is important that we continue with the support of all the National Associations in addressing the many important issues that are facing the commercial catering industry in the coming challenging years.

EFCEM will most definitely continue to represent industry on EU Policy, Directive and Regulations as well as co-ordinating Standard work and responding to member questions, again no other organisation has this authority, mandate, or role in our sector.

The Federations strategy should continue to drive forward, to maintain, to develop and improve EFCEM's position as the leading voice for professional cooking equipment manufacturers in Europe.

On a global basis we are still to return to a physical meeting of the Global Summit, but I believe and support the return of the next Global Summit, re-engaging on issues around data communication, machine intelligence, challenges of the Circular Economy and global energy efficiency issues that face the world.

This is a Federation with a proud reputation within the European catering industry, long may that continue.

Thank You.

P. Williams.
Immediate Past President, EFCEM.
14th June 2023.

Both have been extended and dedicated EFCEM participants, and we wish them every success in their future endeavours.

EFCEM remains the voice of foodservice manufacturing industry across Europe. This subsequent period brings with it both a fresh set of challenges and an exciting period of agile adaptation as we push forward with EFCEM's strategic objectives, harnessing the power and knowledge of all EFCEM members.

If you are a European Association or Federation that represents businesses within the foodservice equipment sector in your country and would like to enquire about joining EFCEM then please reach out to Iain Munro, EFCEM Secretary General, directly.

Request for candidates - vacant 2nd Vice President position

Following the EFCEM General Assembly, EFCEM are issuing a request for candidates from National Association members for the post of 2nd Vice President. Applicants should be representatives from the National Association Producers and not a paid employee of the National Association. For information on application criteria please contact EFCEM President, Mr Martin Ubl, at ubl@mkn.de. Applications must be submitted by the 30th of September.

EFCEM Strategy to be underpinned by Working Group activity -

The Working Group (WG) activity is a very important part of what EFCEM does to support the National Association of Producers (NAP) members and their members. It was agreed at the Paris General Assembly this month there would be a review of the WGs to determine the current aims and goals of each WG to ensure they are aligned with the membership needs and current market challenges.

The scope of the Working Groups is being reviewed to further define group activity and help identify any gaps in the Working Group current activity.

Once we have a clear understanding of Working Group scope and the main areas of focus, EFCEM will then be looking to identify 'Champions' from Working Group participants to take a more prominent role relating to specific issues or topics.
